

HOT INTERNSHIPS

August 9, 2018

CNNsource (Atlanta, GA) – CNNsource is seeking Media Analytics and Journalism interns for the fall and winter semesters. Interning with CNN is an opportunity to work with a great team that is passionate about the same thing you are. Interns will have many networking opportunities to meet people that they'd like to know. To apply for this opportunity please reach out to Nagatha Tonkins at ntonkins@elon.edu.

Greensboro Television Network (Greensboro, NC) – Greensboro Television Network is seeking Elon interns for the upcoming fall and spring semesters. Intern responsibilities will include assisting on video shoots and live meetings, writing scripts, shooting, editing and various other production duties as needed. If this sounds interesting to you, please contact Carlos Castellanos with a resume and cover letter at carlos.castellanos@greensboro-nc.gov.

Mail Chimp (Atlanta, GA) – Mail Chimp is seeking Media Analytics and Design students for internship opportunities in the fall and winter. Mail Chimp wants their interns to have fun and meet people. They want their interns to work on projects that interest them, teach them new skills and stretch their limits. They want them to walk away feeling like they made an impact on the company and that they have grown professionally. To apply, email resume to Mitch Cave at mitch.cave@mailchimp.com.

WRAL TV (Raleigh, NC) – WRAL TV, located in Raleigh, is seeking interns for the fall semester. Interns for WRAL will have the opportunity to work as part of an award-winning team of journalists to produce breaking news and feature content for web, mobile and social media platforms. While the focus will be on experience specific to digital media, all interns will be exposed to other aspects of TV news production, including news and promotions production, reporting, photojournalism, editing and broadcast production. To apply for this internship, please send your resume and cover letter to Alfred Charles at acharles@wral.com.

Atlanta Media Pros (Atlanta, GA) (Paid) – Atlanta Media Pros is seeking interns for the fall and winter semesters. They are an Atlanta-based, full-service video production company driven to craft the highest quality content for their clients. The team understands that creation is only the first step in producing top-quality corporate, marketing, training, and other commercial videos. To apply, send resume and cover letter to Samantha Osburn, samantha@atlantamediapro.com

APCO (New York, NY) – If you are looking for a unique and challenging internship experience, look no further! APCO's internship program will give you the hands on experience you desire. Interns are treated as an extension of the APCO family – working with staff at all levels, participating in client work pitching ideas, and collaborating with fellow interns and staff-giving interns a true taste of what it's like to be a PR professional. BC/DC Ideas (Cary, NC)– BC/DC Ideas is seeking a communication intern for the fall. BC/DC is a creative agency that specializes in strategic communications, social media, public relations, advertising, event management and video production. Their clients are nonprofits in a wide range of fields – conservation, animal rescue, human health, social justice and more. They’re looking for current students or recent graduates interested in nonprofit communications and press relations. Internship duties include drafting copy for social media, the web, flyers, etc. for various clients, pitch media and ideas, complete research projects, prepare content calendars, etc. To apply, please submit a resume, 1-3 relevant writing samples, and let them know: 1) What’s one nonprofit you’d like to work with and why? 2) What makes you a good communicator? 3) What’s your favorite writing-based task (reports, press releases, social media)? Submit these to Sharon Bruce at Sharon@bcdideas.com with the subject line “Communications Intern Application.”

Friends of the High Line (New York, NY) – Friends of the High Line’s Internship Program is committed to finding New Yorkers with big dreams and cultivating them into future industry leaders. Their communications team has the essential task of managing the public image and brand of the High Line, as well as communicating programming and relevant organizational information to High Line audiences. As the Communications intern, you will be responsible for assisting in the development of relevant content that supports the High Line’s mission and current projects. You will also attend professional development workshops and networking events, have an opportunity to take paid certification courses and to join professional associates, create your own long-term projects, and develop your employment portfolio.
