Elon Law Review Symposium

The Implications of United States v. Windsor and Hollingsworth v. Perry for Family Law, Constitutional Law, Tax Law, and Society

November 1, 2013

AGENDA

- 9:00-9:15 Introductory Comments and Opening Remarks
- 9:15-10:15 Panel One – Windsor and Perry: Game Changers for Constitutional Law?
This panel will address the construction and affects of Windsor: its judicial craftsmanship, expansion of Romer and Lawrence, affects on federalism and equal protection, implications for DOMA's Section 2 and same sex marriage bans, and its creation of a new test for constitutionality. The panel will also discuss democracy and the culture of pluralism after Windsor and Perry. Presenters: Mark Strasser, Richard Myers, Clifford Rosky, Scott Gaylord, William Duncan, Robert Destro
- 10:15-10:25 Break
- 10:25-11:25 Panel One Continued
- 11:25-11:45 Question and Answer Session
- 11:45-12:45 Lunch
- 12:45-2:00 Panel Two – Effects on the Family: Windsor and *Perry
This panel will address how Windsor and Perry affect family law: creating a new morality through old language, the collateral effects of the decisions, the implications for the American kinship system, and the intersection of the decisions with North Carolina's Amendment One. Presenters: Lynn Wardle, Scott Fitzgibbon, Lynne Kohm, Rebecca Perry
- 2:00-2:15 Question and Answer Session
- 2:15-2:25 Break
- 2:25-3:40 Panel Three – Feds vs. States: Tax Changes with Windsor and *Perry
This panel will examine federal and state taxes under DOMA and how where you live may affect what and how you pay. It will also look at estate planning, inheritance taxes, and how Windsor and Perry are fueling heated tax debates. Presenters: Patricia Cain, David Herzig, Jennifer Bird-Pollan
- 3:40-3:55 Question and Answer Session
- 3:55-4:00 Closing Remarks
