FROM:       Registrar's Office
RE:          Winter & Spring 2025 course information
DATE:       December 2, 2024

This memorandum includes:

- course descriptions for first-year 2025 Winter and Spring trimester courses,
- the 2025 Winter and Spring trimester class schedules, and
- the textbook list for first-year Winter 2025 courses.

First-year students will be registered automatically for all Winter 2025 courses. For Spring 2025, first-year students will be registered automatically for Property and LMC III. Also for Spring 2025, first-year students will choose between either Business Associations or Evidence (and take the other of those two courses in Fall 2025). First-year advisement will take place January 8 to 15, 2025. First-year registration for this one Spring 2025 course choice will start January 16, 2025, at 1:00 p.m. and end January 17, 2025, at 4:00 p.m. Students will register for their choice in OnTrack. Instructions about registering in OnTrack will be sent to students via email.

Winter 2025

Required Courses for First-Year Students

Contracts

5 credits, Professors Gabriel, Levine, & Lewis

LAW6210

This course is a comprehensive study of the creation, transfer, and termination of contract rights and duties. Fundamental common law principles—such as the capacity to contract, mutual assent, consideration, and legality of subject matter—will be addressed. Pertinent portions of the Uniform Commercial Code, particularly Article 2 dealing with sales, will be covered. Fundamental principles relating to performance, enforceability, contract defenses, and remedies will be addressed.

Criminal Law

3 credits, Professor Fitzgerald & Friedland

LAW6300

This course is a study of substantive criminal law, including an examination of crimes and their elements. Specific common law and statutory crimes will be covered. Available defenses will also be explored.

Criminal Law Lab

1 credit, adjunct professors

LAW6350

In conjunction with the first-year Criminal Law course, the Criminal Law Lab tracks a simulated criminal law case and provides students with the opportunity to engage in basic lawyering tasks (including interviewing, negotiation, oral argument, and drafting) under the supervision of practicing criminal lawyers.

Introduction to Study & Practice of Law (ISPL)

Professor McAuliffe

LAW6060

This course helps first-year students develop and assess their academic and legal skills and knowledge base, and begins the process of preparing for the bar examination. The course continues in the Winter trimester on designated days.

Legal Method & Communication (LMC) II

2 credits, Professors Clodomir, Dineen, Minarcin, Ochs, Reddy, & Ross

LAW6690

LMC II builds on the skills taught in LMC I, with additional practice in the basic conventions of written legal analysis, while working on a more complex legal problem. The focus shifts from predictive legal writing in the law office setting to persuasive legal writing on behalf of a client, for submission to the court. Students conduct initial research on the client's problem, practice negotiating a settlement, and write a trial brief supporting a motion for summary judgment in the federal District Court. Relevant ethical considerations, project management skills, and other professionalism topics are included.

Spring 2025

Required Courses for First-Year Students

Business Associations

4 credits, Professor Flynn

LAW 7100

This course covers basic corporate law, including formation, management, and dissolution of corporations, and the rights and duties of those involved with corporations. The law related to business organizations, such as partnerships and limited liability companies (LLC), also will be covered. Students interested in business law, including either transactional work (assisting clients to enter into agreements) or business litigation (disputes between business entities) may want to register for Business Associations in the Spring trimester. Maximum enrollment 84 students.

Evidence

4 credits, Adjunct Professor Justice Phil Berger, Jr.

LAW 7300

This course develops familiarity with the techniques by which evidence of controverted facts is presented in litigation before judicial tribunals. The Federal Rules of Evidence, North Carolina Rules of Evidence, and common law rules are examined. Students interested in working with litigation or litigation-related topics, including in public service positions such as the District Attorney or Public Defender offices, may want to register for Evidence in the Spring trimester. Taking Evidence in the Spring trimester also prepares students for the Trial Practice and Procedure course in the second-year Fall trimester and for Residency placements in litigation environments. Maximum enrollment 84 students.

Legal Method and Communication (LMC) III

2 credits, Professors Clodomir, Dineen, Minarcin, Ochs, Reddy, & Ross

LAW 6740

This course builds and expands on the skills taught in LMC I & II, as students hone their analytical and legal writing skills. Students will learn additional techniques for persuasive advocacy. They will write a brief to the federal Court of Appeals and will prepare and deliver an appellate oral argument. In addition, students will learn to research legislative history and to include policy arguments effectively in their written and oral advocacy.

Property

5 credits, Professors Haile & Newman-Ruffin

LAW 6400

This course is a study of rights and interests in real property. Topics covered include the acquisition of rights in property, estates and future interests, concurrent ownership, landlord-tenant relations, restrictive covenants, easements, mortgages, and issues relating to title.
